

Contents

Foreword —	vii
A Short Autobiography (So You Know Where the Author, and a Lot of What's in Here, is Coming From)
Preface	xv
The First Few Lessons — In the Beginning...	1
The Singing Lesson, a Discussion of Embouchure — (Huh?)	2
Position	10
Breathing and Support	19
The White Spot	32
Long Tones — Milk for Oboists: You Never Outgrow Your Need For It.	35
Mind Games	45
Preventive Playing or Remedial Playing —Which Do You Do?	46
The “Frustration Gap”	51
Articulation — Starting the Sound and Keeping It Going	53
Staccato — Legato — Let the Battle Begin	58
Double and Triple Tonguing	63
Dynamics	67
Musings on the Terms “Oboe Players, Musicians and Artists”	77

Note Groupings, the Basic Structural Unit of Music	83
“How Do You Get to Carnegie Hall? Practice, Man, Practice!”	143
Practicing Practicing	148
The Metronome Game	152
Practicing Performing	162
Performance Tips — Do’s and Don’ts	169
Professionalism, Responsibility and Accountability	179
Vi-i-i-bra-a-a-to-o-o-o	191
The Rest of the Good News About Long Tones	197
Odds and Ends	203
Warming Up	203
Nose Grease	205
Flood Control	207
Teflon Tape — High-Tech Developments in Reedmaking	211
Postscript — A Downer, But With Hope	213
Appendices	217
High Note Fingering Chart	217
"How Good" Sign	218