Tribute

Suite for Horn and Strings

The title “Tribute” is intended to be a tribute to the horn, to the music, to the composer, and to the performer—and everything that the individual player brings to the piece. It is a gift for all participants, especially for the performer, because it uniquely brings out the best qualities of the horn.

The commissioning of this piece was the brainchild of Andrew McAfee’s dear friends Mark McClure and Cheri McClure Elliott, and was funded with love and admiration by his friends and family, including Mark and Cheri, Pam Wachter McAfee, Darlene and Bob Blackwood, Sophie and Fran Wachter, Mark and Blaine McAfee, Adam and Julie McAfee, and Aaron and Emma McAfee.

We asked that the Fourth Movement memorialize the death of Andrew’s youngest brother, David Boyd McAfee (December 2, 1967—November 14, 1975), and the impact of his death on Andrew’s life, and that, as a tribute to the McAfee ancestry, the movement quote the hymn Near to the Heart of God, which was composed by Andrew’s great-great uncle, Cleland Boyd McAfee (September 25, 1866—February 4, 1944) after the concurrent deaths of his two young nieces from diphtheria.

—Pam McAfee

I’ve always thought the horn to be the noblest and most heroic of all the orchestral instruments, and also to be the most expressive and lyrical of the brass family. To me, the composers of the Romantic and Post-Romantic eras best utilized those qualities. So in composing this piece, I wanted to pay tribute to that era and its composers, not in any specific style or form, but rather in tone and use of melody and harmony. Even then, I stray occasionally into different waters.
